DHA is an important nutrient found in fish and supplements. Getting enough DHA during pregnancy may lower the risk of your baby being born too early. If you are pregnant or thinking about becoming pregnant, scan the QR code to take a short survey as part of a KUMC Research study to see if you are getting enough DHA.